What is the Current Account?

The current account is a contract under which the bank provides cash management services (such as deposits, withdrawals and payments within the limits of the available balance) on behalf of the client, keeping the client's money. The current account may be linked to other services or products such as overdraft facilities.

The current account is for non-retail clients only.

The current account may be open in one of the currencies listed below.

What are the Payment Services?

Payment Services allow the client to receive and make payments within the limit of the available balance of the current account. Payment Services include credit transfers, direct debits and payment of taxes or duties, among others. When the current account is accessible online through the Global Channels or the Local Channels indicated below (the ING Channels), the Bank will allow the client to use account information services and payment initiation services provided by third parties.

The current account allows the client to execute payment orders in the currencies and on the ING Channels as both listed below.

The main risks

The current account is a secure product. The main risks are:

- counterparty risk, i.e. the possibility that the bank may not be able to repay all or part of the available balance to the account holder. For this reason, the bank adheres to the Dutch statutory Deposit Guarantee Scheme, managed by De Nederlandsche Bank N.V. (Dutch Central Bank) (DNB) which guarantees each account holder up to €100,000. For more information please refer to <http://www.dnb.nl> go to "English" section, search for "Deposit Guarantee Scheme";
- unfavourable changes of terms and conditions (including interest rate, commissions and fees). However, this risk is limited by the corresponding right of the client, in the case of unfavourable changes, to withdraw from the current account agreement without cost and penalty within 60 days of the notification of the changes, and to obtain, at the time of termination of such agreement, the application of term and conditions previously applied;
- variability of exchange rates, if the account is in foreign currency, or transactions are carried out in foreign currency.

Other risks may be related to the loss or theft of identification data and passwords to access the account via Internet, but these risks may be mitigated if the account holder complies with the common rules of caution and care.

Economic Conditions

If the current account is denominated in a currency other than Euro, the fee and expenses as listed below will be charged to the Client in the equivalent value of the currency of such account at the conversion rate indicated in section "Currencies and currency conversion" of this Information Sheet.

The fees and commissions are subject to separate agreement.

If the account holder pays or receives amounts in a currency that is not the currency of the account, ING shall debit or credit the account with the equivalent value of such amounts in the currency of the account. ING will determine the equivalent value at the time of the transaction and on the basis of the exchange rate indicated below:

FX Fee - Per transaction	"ING rate" - 3,25% for buying currency (incoming payments for each payment)
	"ING rate" + 3,25% for selling currency (outgoing payments, for each payment)

ING rate

The "ING rate" will be determined as follow:

- for incoming or outgoing payments below 100.000 Euro, in which the client does not hold an FX account, applying independent market standard reference rates published by Refinitiv (formerly known as Thomson Reuters) every day at 07:00, 11:00, 14:00 and 17:00 hrs CET. Payments are processed immediately applying the rates of the last previously published Refinitiv rate update.
- for incoming or outgoing payments above 100.000 Euro, in which the client does not hold an FX account, applying an "ING rate", by picking the most favourable to customers FX rate offered by a pool of FX market liquidity providers. The resulting base rate is updated every 2 seconds in our FX platform.
